Tokyo Ghost for u-he Bazille Documentation

*How to Install

*Learning New UI

*Download & Update

Install Skin

macOS

1.Go to "Macintosh HD/Library/Application Support/u-he/Themes” and drop the theme folder (the one named “Tokyo Ghost").

⚠It's the system library, not your user library!

⚠It's not "/u-he/Bazille/Themes". The "Themes" folder is right under the "u-he" folder.

2. Open Bazille.
3. Click the cog icon (top-right) to open the preference.
4. Choose “Tokyo Ghost” as the default skin.

Windows

1. Find your Bazille data folder. By default it is on "C:VSTPlugins:u-he:Bazille.data"
2. Move to ":Support:Themes" folder. If the folders don't exist, create them manually.
3. Drop the theme folder (the one named “Tokyo Ghost") there.
4. Open Bazille.
5. Click the cog icon (top-right) to open the preference.
6. Choose “Tokyo Ghost” as the default skin.

Install Custom Font

Tokyo Ghost uses custom fonts to create different taste than the original one. To make it work, you have to put fonts to the right folder. (Without font installation, the default font is used instead.)

macOS

Go to "Macintosh HD/Library/Application Support/u-he/Bazille/Fonts” and drop the font folder (the folder named “Inter").

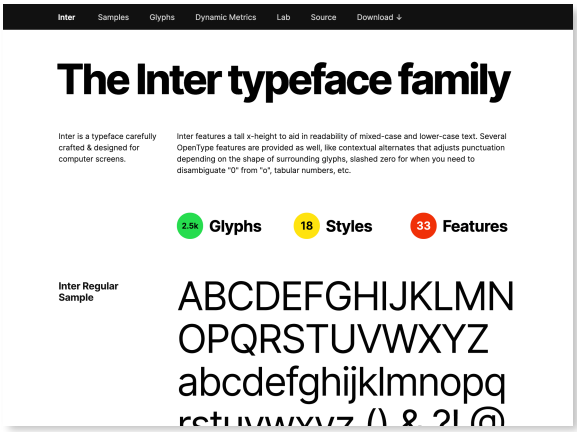
⚠It's the system library, not your user library!

Windows

---

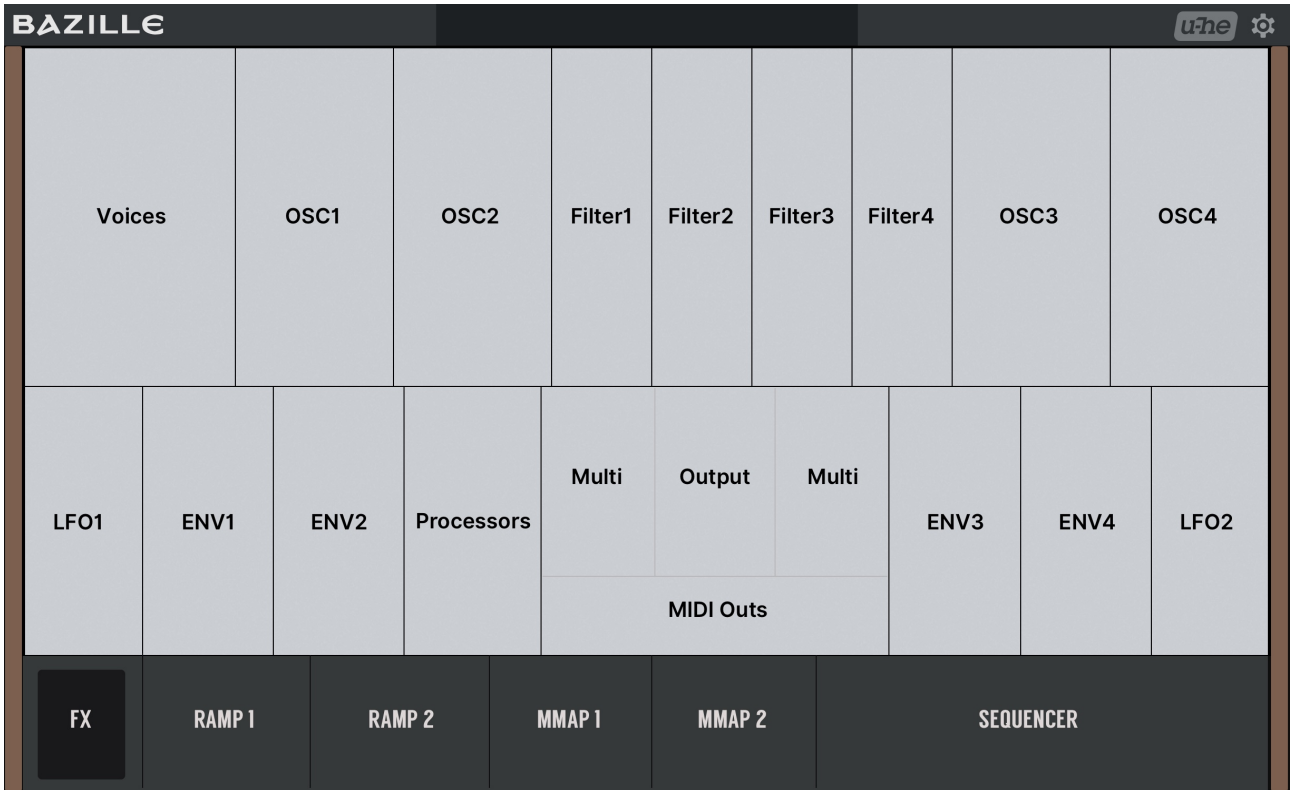
1. Find your Bazille folder. By default it is on "C:VSTPlugins:u-he:Bazille.data"
2. Move to "Data:Fonts" and drop the font folder (the folder named "Inter").

Inter is a OFL font carefully crafted & designed for computer screens.
https://rsms.me/inter/

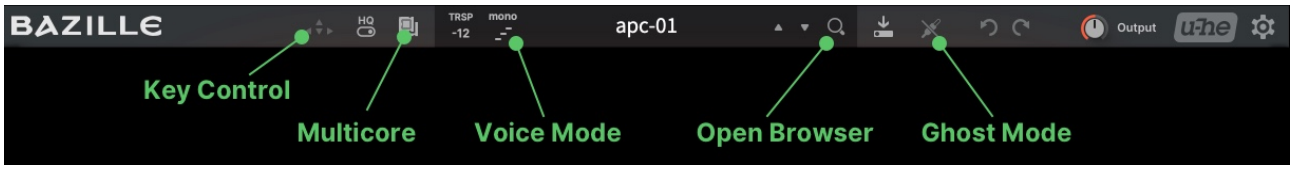


Structure

Tokyo Ghost has a bit different layout from the original skin.



Some of the important parameters are gathered in the header.



You can open the detail of FXs and mod mappers from the expand buttons.

Modulation System

Tokyo Ghost adopts a slightly different modulation display style. The mod depth knob is very small, and instead, a ring around the target knob displays the mod depth.

Ghost Mode

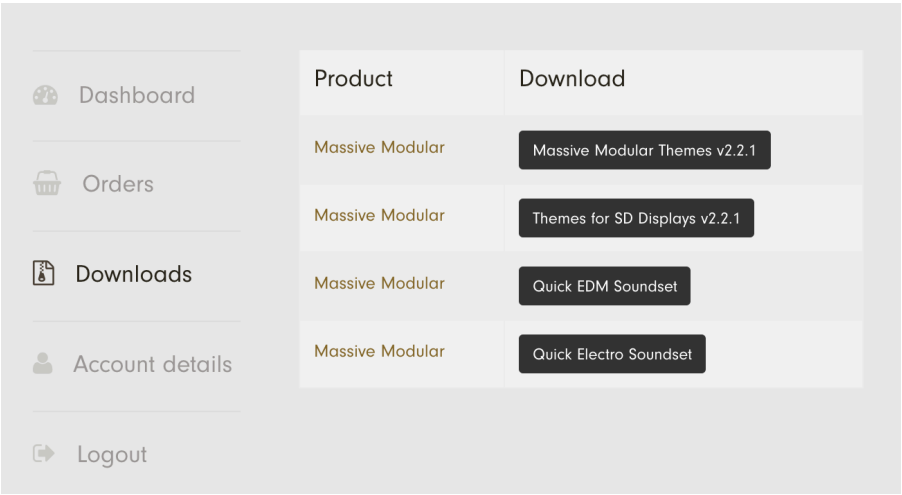
You can hide cables by pushing the toggle in the header.

Download & Update

Re-download or update is provided via the website.
Your account page is : https://plugmon.jp/my-account/

Please login with your e-mail and password. If you don't have account yet, you have to create one (When creating, make sure that you enter the same address as you used on purchase).

After login, go to "Downloads" tab, where you can download your purchased products.



*If you have any troubles, please contact us.